What is the Coop?

The Harvard Cooperative Society was founded in 1882 as an association to provide members of the Harvard-M.I.T. academic and professional community with a place to buy merchandise at competitive prices. Now, one hundred years later, the Coop still adheres to these same principles and also stocks everything from men's and women's clothing, art prints and books to housewares and calculators.

The Coop is a corporation owned by its members. The stock is held in trust by ten stockholders. It is governed by a board of twenty-three directors consisting of eleven faculty and alumni, eleven students from the Harvard, M.I.T., Radcliffe community and the Coop's General Manager. This board sets general operating policies which are carried out by the general manager and his staff. The Society publishes annual statements to keep members aware of the Coop's operations.

THE PATRONAGE REBATE

The Coop meets competitive prices on identical items within its shopping area. As a cooperative, it makes patronage rebates to members from net earnings from business done with members, in proportion to their individual purchases.

Each spring, pursuant to Internal Revenue Service Regulations for cooperatives, the directors vote the basis on which patronage rebates will be made on members' purchases for the ensuing fiscal year beginning July 1. The rebate for the year ending June 1981 was 9.5%.

This rate is subject to the legal limitation that the total to be distributed may not exceed the net earnings from business done with members. Although the directors in recent years have voted that maximum amount, there is no assurance that they will continue to do so if in their judgment a portion of the net earnings from business done with members should be added to the Society's capital.

BYLAWS

Any member of the Harvard Cooperative Society may obtain a copy of the Bylaws by applying at the General Manager's Office of the Society.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

The Rules and Regulations governing the detailed conduct of the Society's business are given below. Members are particularly requested to note that no employee of the store has any authority to vary these rules except with the written approval of the General Manager.

Object: The object of the Harvard Cooperative Society is to reduce the cost of living at M.I.T., Harvard, Episcopal Divinity School, Radcliffe and associated institutions. It exists solely for that purpose and endeavors to afford especial facilities for the purchase of all kinds of students' supplies.

Membership is open to students, faculty, alumni and employees of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard, Episcopal Divinity School, Radcliffe, the personnel of the hospitals affiliated with the Harvard Medical School, and other associated institutions.

Members are not allowed in any way to transfer their privilege to non-members or to make purchases on their own account in the interest of non-members. Non-members may not use a Coop number of a member. The discovery of such wrong use of membership will mean the cancellation of membership.

Non-members may buy at the Coop, and may have charge accounts, but do not receive Patronage Rebates.

Purchases made in the Society's stores by members are specially recorded, provided the purchaser gives the number of his membership card at the time of purchase.

Patronage Rebates are calculated on the amount of purchases credited to each member and the rate may vary from year to year.

Payments of Patronage Rebates for the fiscal year 1981-82 will be ready for distribution on October 14, 1982. Membership cards are required as means of identification. Checks will be mailed upon request to members absent from Cambridge. Checks not picked up personally are mailed out to the members in December. Checks cannot be delivered to friends or messengers without written authority from the owner. To be eligible for Patronage Rebates, the membership fee of $1.00 must have been paid.

Taxes, handling, shipping and wrapping charges are not counted as purchases.

The printed Annual Report is issued in October, and is available to members at the General Manager's Office.
